

I believe that any and all efforts to prevent satellite radio from broadcasting anything they want is a direct violation of the 1st amendment, and should be disallowed. I am a subscriber to XM radio (2 licenses) and will probably be getting a third. For once, I can listen to what I want to, when I want to do it. When I travel from City to City, I can get traffic and weather - again - whenever I want. I am not subjected to the vagaries of when someone else decides I should get it. If I want to pay for it, and its not hurting anyone else, I think I should have access to this programming. If the NAB doesn't like it, they should look at their own shortcomings and determine how they can attact a greater market share. They should not be allowed to use the government to enhance their lack of competitiveness.
